Work Experience
Holiday Enrichment / Revision Activities - Mathematics, Science, IT

During the holidays, some Ave Maria College Senior School students participated in several enrichment or revision activities to gain a further insight into their schooling or a possible career path.

Veronica Pham and Agata Spanti from Year 10 attended the “Hands-On Engineering Day” at the University of Melbourne. During the day, they participated in workshops dealing with humanitarian engineering (Engineers without Borders) a water filter activity, civil or structural engineering activities as well as other engineering activities.

Sabrina Gleeson, also from Year 10, attended the “Hands-On IT Day” at the University of Melbourne. With students from other schools, she made an app, used robotic equipment to make robots sing and dance and learnt some programming techniques.

Year 12 Further Mathematics students attended an in-house revision seminar to start putting all of the individual concepts they have learnt into one framework to assist with revision for their final examinations. Meanwhile, a group of Year 12 Maths Methods students attended another University of Melbourne program to commence their revision. Congratulations to all of the Year 12 students who participated in either program, showing that they are taking their studies seriously and already working towards their end of year examinations.
